FERPA Quick Reference for Faculty

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and COM policy restrict the disclosure of information from student records.

Student educational records include records directly related to a student and maintained by the institution or by a party acting for the institution. Examples include exams, papers, advising or other notes about a student, applications, financial documents, and any correspondence that contains information about a student, including e-mail correspondence.

Presume that all student information is confidential, and do not disclose information without a student's consent except to College of Marin officials who have a legitimate educational interest in the information.

Avoid inadvertently disclosing information from student records by following these examples:

- Do not post grades or leave graded tests, papers, or other student materials for students to pick up in a stack that requires sorting through the papers of all students.
- Do Not send confidential information such as grades in an e-mail.
- Do Not require students to post identifiable homework assignments or projects in a publicly accessible online forum (e.g., Facebook, YouTube, and other social media spaces).
- Do not require students to participate in a publicly accessible online blog – Use Canvas.
- Do not circulate or post a class roster of student names or one that includes photographs or student ID numbers.

Placing any information about students on a website or app not under contract with the College of Marin may not meet FERPA requirements.

In letters of recommendation, faculty, teaching assistants, and readers can discuss their personal observations, but they should not disclose information from student records, such as grades, without the student's consent.

Use MyCOM Student Email or Canvas to Communicate with Students

The ONLY FERPA approved form of email communication is to use the institutional-assigned MyCOM Student email. The use of any personal email is always subject to others having access, etc. Students can forward the institutional emails to their personal email if they choose to do so.

All enrolled students have access to this email through MyCOM.

The address is in the form USERNAME@mycom.marin.edu

If a student initiates communication with you using a personal email use the sample text below to respond and redirect the student to their MyCOM Student Email.

Dear STUDENT'S NAME,

To protect your privacy I cannot share personally identifiable information with you using your personal email address. Please use your MyCOM Student Email or Canvas to communicate with me in the future. Learn how to access and forward your MyCOM Student Email at <http://it.marin.edu/accessing-mycom-email>.

If you have any questions or concerns related to FERPA please contact Jon Horinek, Dean of Enrollment Services at jhorinek@marin.edu.
